

GORILLAZ

Live from Apollo theater, Harlem 2006

"The group is reinventing the way that artists stage concerts"--SPIN

"Transformed from sly and cool into thumping and imposing... tidy little melodies sound like folk anthems when sung in public. "--THE NEW YORKER

Fresh off opening the 48th Annual Grammy Awards alongside Madonna and taking home the Pop Collaboration with Vocals award, all tickets for all five nights of GORILLAZ: DEMON DAYS LIVE AT THE APOLLO sold out in less than an hour.

Following a rapturously received run at the Manchester Opera House last November, the musical collaborators behind the Grammy-winning Gorillaz' album Demon Days will reconvene at Harlem's legendary Apollo Theater for five nights April 2-6. Confirmed to join Demon Days producer/Gorillaz co-creator Damon Albarn at press time are De La Soul, Ike Turner, Bootie Brown of the Pharcyde, Neneh Cherry, Happy Mondays' Shaun Ryder, UK rapper Roots Manuva, with others to be announced.

DEMON DAYS LIVE is not to be confused with the unprecedented live holographic tour the Gorillaz team and animation house Passion Pictures are currently producing for 2007-2008. The live Gorillaz shows will be a unique cross between live performance and a theme park experience, with the band fully present onstage, rendered in 3 eye-popping dimensions. Crucially, the show will evolve over the life of the tour, like any live performance, will feature stellar guests from Demon Days, and will ultimately bring the unique visual identity created by Jamie Hewlett to a live audience.
